Which Birth Dates Are Most Common?

U.S. BIRTHDAY RANK

366th 1st

Colossi of the N.F.L.
 Below, some of the most mentioned players and coaches this season. Each player's height is scaled according to the number of times he was mentioned on "SportsCenter" or "Sunday N.F.L. Countdown."

Tim Tebow
 About 1,450 mentions

Tom Brady
 About 850 mentions

Peyton Manning
 About 600 mentions

Aaron Rodgers
 About 550 mentions

Michael Vick
 About 540 mentions

Transcripts were collected from the 9 a.m. and 11 p.m. editions of "SportsCenter" from Aug. 1, 2010, to Feb. 1, 2012, including the weekly broadcast of "Sunday N.F.L. Countdown" on Sundays. In some cases, a later airing was used to avoid conflicts with "College Gameday" on Saturdays. Closed-captioning transcripts for a small number of dates were not available.

BILL BELICHIK
 The anchors were mostly reverent when describing the Patriots' coach, mentioning his secrecy, calling him "tremendous" and a "mastermind."

NDAMUKONG SUH
 The most mentioned defensive player, Suh made the list mostly because of his two-game suspension for stamping on an opponent's arm during Detroit's game against the Green Bay Packers on Nov. 24.

KYLE ORTON
 In November, Orton went to Kansas City after losing a quarterback battle to Tim Tebow, leading to talk of a potential matchup between the former teammates. He and Tebow did face off in Denver on Jan. 1 — and that time, Orton won.

PEYTON MANNING
 Despite going the entire season without taking a snap, Manning was discussed more than most of the league's active players — even more than his younger brother, Eli, who led the Giants to Sunday's Super Bowl.

TIM TEBOW
 On "SportsCenter," there was Tebow and then there was everyone else. After the Broncos' sixth consecutive win, he was mentioned more than 40 times in the next morning's edition of the show.
